Have you ever had a nutrition-related question about the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) but didn’t know who to ask? Maybe you had a question but were embarrassed to ask your colleagues or someone at the state agency office? Look no further, the Institute of Child Nutrition (ICN) has a Help-Desk Team, equipped to answer those nutrition-related questions.

ICN was established by Congress in the Child Nutrition and WIC Reauthorization Act of 1989. It is funded by a grant administered through the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Food and Nutrition Service (FNS). The Institute’s mission is to provide information and services that promote the continuous improvement of child nutrition programs, such as the help-desk service.

ICN’s Help-Desk Team is designed to answer questions and provide information or referrals related to a variety of topics. More specifically, the Help-Desk Team is well diverse in over 18 areas, such as:

- Computer applications
- Procurement
- Food production

Additionally, the Help-Desk Team is designed to assist you with finding your regulatory requirements as outlined by your state or local agency. For example, if you have questions regarding food temperatures, breastmilk storage, or other regulatory based questions, ICN will work with you to identify the correct answer and a point of contact for your state. Above all, the Help-Desk team is designed as a resource to help you meet optimal success while participating in the CACFP and other child nutrition programs.

There are three ways to reach the Help-Desk Team. First, you can call 1-800-321-3054 and speak to a Help-Desk Team Member between 8:00 am - 5:00 pm (CST). Secondly, you can email your questions to helpdesk@theicn.org, and a team member will respond to your email within 24-48 hours. Lastly, you can fax your questions to 1-800-321-3061, and a team member will respond via fax, phone, or email.
